CLE's Participation in the Spoga Fair, Cologne, Germany, August 31- September 2, 2014

Report by O.P. Pandey, Regional Director (Central), CLE

History of Saddle & Harness manufacturing in Kanpur & the initial participation in the Spoga Fair (Germany) since 1978.

Harness & Saddlery goods are the Horse riding & driving equipments, are being manufactured in Kanpur since more than 100 years. The industry was started in the 19th century by British India Corporation (BIC) through establishment of the ‘Harness Factory’ presently known as Ordinance Equipment Factory at Kanpur, to cater to the needs of the British Army and Police. The raw material for these products was manufactured in the Cooper Allen Tannery (another BIC unit at Kanpur, currently known as TAFCO). They had a comprehensive training programme for the local workers & artisans by the then British experts for Tanning & Saddle making within these two respective factories, whose generation now form the major workforce of the present day Saddlery industry in Kanpur & Unnao region.

By virtue of Kanpur & neighbouring Unnao’s specialization in vegetable tanned buffalo hides (from which harness leather is made) which is the main raw material for Harness & Saddlery goods and due to the trained manpower available in these cities, it has become the only region in India to manufacture Saddlery & Harness goods. It may be surprising for many that all the Saddlery manufacturing units are highly labour intensive and 100% export oriented. Harness & Saddlery comprises of a very wide range of products running into more than 1000 different items. In addition to the traditional leather equipments, it also includes metal hardware, nylon & textile items, such as horse rugs/blankets and also the riding apparel and the specialized riding boots, etc. Majority of metallic hardware, cotton webbing and the saddle trees used as components are manufactured in Kanpur by ancillary units.

In the late seventies some of the progressive exporters of Harness & Saddlery products started visiting & exhibiting their products in Spoga fair at Koln (Germany) through STC (State Trading Corporation of India Ltd) to expand their business horizon. At that time Spoga used to be predominantly a sports goods fair and the big names like Adidas & Puma were the main German exhibitors at that time. Only a few German companies used to exhibit Saddlery & Harness goods in Spoga fair at that time. But, due to some major reason the giants like Adidas & Puma had boycotted this fair and shifted their participation in a big way to ISPO Fair in Munich, followed by the exodus of the remaining small players, due to which Spoga gradually got converted into world’s major Equestrian fair from a prominent Sports goods fair.

Today India’s participation in terms of number of exhibitors from any country is the highest in this fair, followed by Germany. India’s current export of Harness & Saddlery products is about Rs. 855.00 Crores and the growth rate is 13%. In quantity terms India is the largest producer of Saddlery & Harness goods in the world.

German Leather Industry:

The German Leather Industry is represented by the Verband der Deutschen Lederindustrie e.V., German Leather Federation (VDL), which has a total membership of 50 companies that represent approximately 95% of German leather production, employing an estimated 2000 workers. These plants comprise 13 larger ones (with a turnover of more than €25 million and more than 50 employees) 17 medium sized ones (with a turnover of more than €10 million and between 50 and 200 employees) and 20 smaller plants with less than 20 employees.

VDL as an industrial trade association provides professional services to its members and represents the interests of the industry towards government bodies as well as the related supplier and purchaser industries. The biggest companies in the German leather sector are the suppliers of automotive and furniture upholstery leather. Then there are 2 larger companies for shoe upper and bag leather. One company is a contract tannery only that does hides until wet blue & crust. About 15 tanneries do the whole process from raw hides or skins until finished leather. Some tanneries do offer contract works for third parties. 35 tanneries start the process from semi finished hides or skins in the wet-blue or crust state and do the re-tanning, dying and finishing only. All but 3 companies qualify as SMEs; all are limited companies and the large majority is still family owned.

The producers of goat and sheep leathers as well as wool on lamb skins are among the smaller group of companies with less than 20 employees. Of the total production more than 90% consists of calf skins and bovine hides. The rest is goat, lamb and deer skins for garment, gloves and shoes and some salmon skins for diverse uses There is also one fully equipped tannery at the Lederinstitut Gerber, the national training, research and testing center for the leather industry in Germany. This tannery facility is used primarily for teaching purposes, but it is also used for a certain amount of commercial activity.

The German leather producing industry is no longer one of the largest internationally, but it is still the 3rd biggest producer in the European Union behind Italy and Spain and before France and UK. It has specialized in the production of high quality leathers for the automotive and the furniture sector. One of its comparative advantages is the proximity to the German premium automotive companies such as Daimler Benz, BMW, AUDI and Porsche.

Germany is not just a centre of quality leather production, but as well has a world class concentration of leather expertise - in research, innovation, teaching, training, consulting, trading and design - with organizations such as the Lederinstitut Gerberschule, Reutlingen and the Forschungsinstitut für Leder- und Kunststoffbahnen, Freiberg.

Aside from this some of the world’s leaders of suppliers of chemicals for leather processing are located in Germany which companies such as BASF, LANXESS, TFL just to name the biggest which ensure a tight network for innovation and research in the leather industry.

For visitors - Industry meeting point

It is one of the world’s most important ordering trade fairs for this industry and a date on the equestrian calendar that nobody wants to miss. More than 66 percent of suppliers coming from outside Germany, it hosts an impressive international standing. Everything for the horse and rider is to be found here, from clothing, helmets, shoes and boots to saddles and bridles, grooming products, foodstuffs, accessories and services. Together with an attractive programme of accompanying events, a visit to spoga horse is a unique experience for any equestrian enthusiast.

For exhibitors - A market place

There is a reason why spoga horse is regarded as the most important ordering trade fair for the equestrian industry: around 95% of visitors who attend are involved in purchasing and procurement decisions. A simpler and more efficient way to do business will be hard to find. The pleasant atmosphere, impressive infrastructure and attractive programme of accompanying events make every moment here an enjoyable one.

Creative and competitive

The focus was placed on the innovative power of the industry once again this year through the spoga horse Innovation Award, which was conferred by Koelnmesse and the trade magazine, equitrends, for the 14th time. A first and second place was awarded in the three categories ‘Horse & Stable’, ‘Riders’ and ‘Saddles & Accessories’. In advance, a trade jury had already selected 15 nominees from among the approx. 50 entries, which were presented to the trade visitors in the spoga horse Nominees Gallery and at the Innovation Award Area on the Boulevard.

FAIR REPORT

Business Outcome:
During the fair, Spot Orders booked was to the tune of Euro 5,00,000 and Expected order were booked for Euro 45,00,000 approx. as per the feedback received form the member-participants.

Conclusion:
Germany is one of the main markets for Indian Harness & Saddlery manufacturer – exporters. Spoga Fair provides an ideal platform to the Indian Harness & Saddlery Industry to showcase their products and explore business. We should hence continue our participation with full of our strength by way of increase of exhibition area in the coming edition.
